University of South Florida
College of Arts and Sciences
Department of Women’s and Gender Studies

The Department of Women’s and Gender Studies at the University of South Florida invites applications for a nine-month, tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Women’s Health, with a research and/or teaching focus on China, transnational feminisms, or global intersectionalities. The position will begin August 2013 at a salary of $65.7K. Successful applicants must have a PhD with a documented emphasis, cognate, or expertise in feminist and/or queer perspectives. The degree must be conferred by appointment start date. The degree may be in Women’s, Gender, and/or Sexuality Studies, a health-related field, or in a discipline that complements the disciplines already represented in WGS: English, Sociology, Performance Studies, History, and Mass Communication. We welcome applicants from across the humanities, social sciences, natural sciences, public and community health, and health sciences.

We seek a dynamic individual with an outstanding record of, or potential for, college teaching in face-to-face and/or online classrooms. The successful candidate will contribute to teaching undergraduate courses in the WGS core curriculum and elective courses including Politics of Women’s Health, Human Sexual Behavior, or Women, Environment, and Gender. At the graduate level, the successful candidate will be a vital member of the WGS MA program, teaching graduate classes in women’s health, transnationalism, and courses in areas of specialty, as well as directing MA theses.

We seek a feminist scholar with a record of, or potential for, outstanding research and scholarship in women’s health, especially related to China, global health issues, disparities, and transnational flows. Evidence of successful grant applications, external and internal funding, and interdisciplinary work is highly desirable. The successful candidate will be expected to develop relationships with the USF Confucius Institute, USF World, and USF Health.

The Department of Women’s and Gender Studies at USF has 100 undergraduate majors, more than 35 affiliate faculty, and a core faculty of five full-time and jointly appointed faculty. One of the oldest Women’s Studies departments in the country, USF was the first public university in Florida to offer a BA degree in Women’s Studies. For more information on the USF Department of Women’s and Gender Studies, see http://wgs.usf.edu/.

A completed application file includes:
- A letter of application
- Curriculum vita
- Three letters of recommendation sent to the Search Committee Chair (address below)
- Documentation of high-quality teaching or potential for teaching
- Statement of research interests
- Writing sample

Applications and all supporting documentation must be received by January 4, 2013. Please send all materials (exclusive of letters of recommendation) to: http://employment.usf.edu

Please send letters of recommendations to:
Dr. Kim Golombisky, Chair of Search Committee
Department of Women’s and Gender Studies
4202 East Fowler Avenue, CMC 342
University of South Florida
Tampa, FL 33620

According to Florida Law, applications and meetings regarding them are open to the public. For ADA accommodations, please contact Ginny Scott (813.974.3496 or ginny1@usf.edu) at least five working days prior to need.